

We are continuing to review and adapt our plans in relation to the changing scenario regarding COVID-19.

Our onsite teaching will be delivered in accordance with public health guidelines in place at the time (for example in line with social distancing requirements). Also whilst we are planning for delivery to be on site, if government guidelines and requirements change through a further national or local lockdown, LCDS may need to move all or some of its provision online.

COURSE OUTLINE:	The MA Expanded Dance Practice will have a strong research focus and will be centred around the learning journey of the individual within a community of researchers. Students will be encouraged to critically reflect on their own practice, acknowledging their own personal narratives and histories. The course will offer the opportunity for students to engage in a range of embodied, collaborative and reflective practices, choreographic approaches, political debate and creative experimentation. Students will be supported in acknowledging their relevancy to, and their ability to communicate with, wider sociological, environmental, economic and political narratives. They will be able to build the necessary skills to be able to initiate and realise creative projects independently. Throughout the course students will develop a portfolio of work which aims to build their confidence in how they contextualise their practice and how they can communicate their

	ideas in a way that is meaningful and effective. Students will be supported in recognising their relevancy and understanding their audience(s). Group learning and peer feedback will help to develop a strong learning community. Different modes of communication and presentation will be explored, including live performance, presentation, project proposals, digital outputs and reflective portfolios. There will also be a focus on developing professional skills and networks, helping graduates to transition into or continue working confidently within the independent dance sector.
CORE UNITS AND ANY OPTIONAL UNITS: (Including no of credits)	Students are required to take 180 credits for the award of MA Expanded Dance Practice. There are 3 core units on the course. Unit 1 - Locating Practice (60 credits) This unit will serve as means to establish a community of practice within the cohort, fostering a sense of belonging and developing a supportive peer group. Seminars and practical workshops will introduce research methodologies alongside critical debates and issues. There will be a strong commitment to the exchange of knowledge between seminar and studio. There will also be organised visits to galleries/performances/exhibitions which will provide shared experiences and points of departure for critical dialogue. Students will be supported to locate their own practice within wider international, social and political contexts. Tutors will reference the work of relevant significant artists, but students will also be encouraged to share and value their own historical and cultural narratives. Critical race studies and postcolonial practices will be a major departure point for critiquing existing power structures and narratives within dominant contemporary dance canons. Studio practice will include embodied techniques, choreographic workshops and the development of a personal creative practice concerned with the body as site of performance/sensation/experience. Although not assessed, peer feedback will be an important aspect of this unit in order to build peer support and also to encourage a sense of agency and value for each individual. Unit 2 – Resourcing Practice (60 credits) This unit will build on skills acquired in unit 1. Having developed a more integrated sense of identity within their field of practice, students will now work to develop this in relation to wider contexts, audiences and applications. Students will receive taught input on/have encounters with a range of different mediums which concern dialogues of communication around dance and dance-making/performing/producing. Seminar delivery within this unit will focus on supporting students to gather the professional skills they require in order to take their work beyond the institution. Developing a sustainable and responsible arts practice that has longevity will be prioritised.

This will include input from The Place Theatre and Artist Development alongside taught workshops offering skill-building on digital formats, for example screendance, projection, sound and music technology.

Students will then be invited to work on the crafting of a project proposal which will be realised in the final unit. This proposal will include an artist statement, an online pitch/trailer, a project outline and business plan/budget.

Students will be encouraged to seek collaborative partners and to reflect on how their practice responds to and communicates with a wider socio-political context.

This unit will encourage students to have agency in deciding on their research area and autonomy in terms of setting up a self-directed work placement/professional opportunity for their final project. Students will be encouraged to think about the currency and relevancy of their practice, alongside the potential for communication and exchange.

All students will engage in peer evaluation in this unit to encourage exchange and critical dialogue alongside transparency and integrity in assessment processes.

Unit 3 - Applying Practice (60 credits)

This final unit requires the student to work independently to realise a substantial final project or portfolio of work. Having submitted and received feedback on their extended project proposal, students will be assigned an appropriate supervisor who will guide, support and challenge the student throughout the process.

The nature of the final project can vary, and will be subject to negotiation, but may include live and/or digital outputs. Students will be required to negotiate how their work is viewed/approached by appropriate audiences.

Possible outcomes may include live performance, installation, film, presentation/viva or other. There will be a final degree show housed across The Place.

As with units 1 and 2, a supporting research document is required alongside the practical project. This will include a final self-evaluation of the project. The form of this can be negotiated with supervision but may take the form of an academic dissertation, a presentation/viva, or a substantial online blog/portfolio. Peer assessment will once again be utilised within this unit.

METHOD OF STUDY:
(for example, lectures, seminars, work placements)

Modes of learning and teaching will include studio based practice, choreographic and practical workshops, lectures and seminars. In Unit 3 – Applying practice, the work is primarily self-directed with tutorial support. Peer evaluation will be utilised throughout the course through supportive study groups.

Whilst we are planning for delivery to be on site, if government guidelines and requirements change through a further national or local lockdown, LCDS may need to move all or some of its provision online.
